Can Picafort is a coastal town of Mallorca that belongs to the municipality of Santa Margalida. It is located in the Bay of Alcudia, about 10 kilometers from Santa Margarita, in the northeast of the city of Palma, on the north coast of the island. It is also located between two very important natural parks: the Natural Park of S´Albufera and the Public Estate of Son Real.
This place is one of the main tourist centres of the island and offers a great variety of services and attractions that every year are enjoyed by visitors from any point of Europe, but mainly from Germany and the United Kingdom, who choose Can Picafort to enjoy their holidays.
The history of Can Picafort begins a little more than a century ago, when some wealthy families from Santa Margalida decided to build their summer houses in this area.
Nowadays Can Picafort is a tourist destination in Mallorca with a wide range of hotels and restaurants. In the early 1970s, Can Picafort was a small fishing village with 200 inhabitants.
