Also very close to the house, only 2 km away, is the old town of Alcúdia, whose name combines Arab and Roman influences. Situated close to the Serra de Tramuntana, Alcúdia has its back to rural Mallorca, at the foot of the waters of two bays: the north of Pollença and the east of Alcúdia. Alcúdia is located in the centre of this area of contrasts, between the stone wall of the Serra de Tramuntana and the sandy coves of the bay of Alcúdia, between the north wind, the sea and the inland.

Alcúdia treasures an important historical legacy and the essence of Mediterranean life, where everything happens slowly, where everything is savoured and enjoyed. Within its medieval walls (which began to be built in the year 1300) is Sa Plaza: the meeting place of the "alcudia people", the place of passage, the meeting point. All around it there are bars, restaurants and terraces to enjoy the best gastronomy of the island.

In any direction from the square, winding streets in various directions will lead you to beautiful monuments such as the gates of La Xara and Sant Sebastià, the Church of Sant Jaume, in front of which is the city of Rome Pollentia and a little further on the Roman theatre, a "rara avis" because instead of being built, it is excavated in the rock.

A row of orange trees mark the route of the main streets, the Carrer del Moll and the Calle Mayor. These streets are home to small jewellers shops, shoe shops, clothes shops, bars, restaurants, many of these establishments housed in large houses built centuries ago, in small, quiet squares. Alcúdia is one of those places where it is worth losing yourself in its streets to discover in every corner a new charming place, a new sensation.

Every Tuesday and Sunday morning, the pace of the town quickens with the market. Farmers, traders, craftsmen and artists paint the town with colour and the hustle and bustle of the people around them can be felt inside and outside the medieval walls.

Precisely from the Coll Baix start some very interesting excursions for trekking and nature lovers as you climb up to Sa Talaia, an old defensive watchtower at the highest point of the municipality. From the top you can see two bays, the Serra, Alcúdia, the Pla de Mallorca and, when the day is clear, the coast of Menorca.

But if there is a must for nature lovers, it is S'Albufereta and S'Albufera: two of the largest wetlands, of relevant ecological value, in the Balearic Islands, with important plant and animal species.

The Alcanada golf course is also only 5 kilometres away from 'La Casa del Pescador en Barcarés'. It is one of the most outstanding golf courses in Mallorca with 18 holes and spectacular views.
